Welcome

Hello and welcome to the new Eden Court Cinema brochure! August is always a strange month to programme. The 'samey' summer blockbusters are winding down and people begin to look towards the award season in the winter, with Tarantino's Once Upon A Time... in Hollywood and Almodóvar's Pain and Glory certain to be award-contenders. I'm looking forward to seeing both films – they premiered in Cannes, but I don't go due to the heat and the fact I'd definitely have to shave my beard to cope. I'm sure it's a great festival – though not as good as the Inverness Film Festival, 8-14 Nov.

The month begins with Robert the Bruce, an intimate epic based around a winter where the history books are uncertain of his movements, more concerned with the man than the legend and a really strong counterpoint to Braveheart.

Playing throughout August are films for both the Highland Palestine Film Festival and the CANADA NOW 2019 tour. It's very important to us that we screen as many great films from around the world that we can, as there are some fantastic films that don't get released in the UK. Tours like this give us the chance to screen a few of them.

It's a great month for re-releases of classics: Don't Look Now, Kind Hearts and Coronets, Notorious – as well as the Egyptian masterpiece Cairo Station. Horror, comedy, thriller and social realism mixed with murder, these films have everything cinema is about and the big screen is the best place to see them.

Hopefully you'll find something you fancy, and if you see me around please do let me know what you think.
